

I believe that the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Since the Telephone Privacy law was implemented and I signed up for it my time at home has been improved immensely. Most of the phone calls I was receiving were from telemarketers and they always called at very inoportune times. It got to the stage where I gave up answering the phone at certain times of the day....10-11am and 6-7pm. Since joining in July I have only had 2 calls from telemarketers. I am a college student and having to constantly answer the phone or listen to it ringing severly disturbed my studying. I do not buy from telemarketers for the simple reason they are so persistant and I like to decide for myself whether I want a product or not. I will not be persuaded over the phone no matter how persuasive they try to be. If the Telephone Privacy law is changed I would seriously consider getting rid of the phone. I probably would not be the only one to do that and that could have severe economic effects. People are entitled to their privacy, we're getting it at the moment but that will disappear if things change. I value my privacy, please do not allow it to be taken away by this proposed change.
